

Wind. Fire. Speech.

Three powerful images dominate the image of the birth of the church: mighty wind, fire and speech (Acts 2: 1-4). It's fascinating to see how these three all intertwine:

- Wind, like God's Spirit, moves where it will, inscrutable, invisible, yet overwhelmingly powerful.
- Fire, an image of the mysterious presence of God, whose burning brings transformation – burning up trash, yet changing food, metal and rocks from ordinary to extraordinary.
- Prophetic Speech, which encompasses the first two images – mysterious movement, burning like fire – transforming people and pushing them to move.

Parrish and I were coming back from a visit with our son Edison at Hastings College last month when, all of a sudden, we realized we were driving into a tornado. We immediately pulled off at a rest stop. I asked a man there where the tornado was. He said, "There is one three miles ahead moving away from us, and there are three or four more cells forming south and coming toward us." It was a dramatic few hours. It was unbelievable to experience the unseen power of wind, mysteriously tearing down walls.

In the ancient middle east, there were plenty of walls. But these were walls of different ethnic, religious and social groups. Each one built to keep out people who were different. On Pentecost, this mighty wind, fire and speech come and tear down all those walls. The people on the inside of the church could all of a sudden understand the people outside the church. And the people outside of the church all of a sudden felt understood. There was a sense of God's power that changed those present and brought them together.

We live in a world with a lot of walls. A lot of people do not feel cared for, noticed or understood. We live in a world full of attack ads where people try to drive a wedge between others who see things differently. We live in a world where social walls keep people from understanding or caring about each other. It makes it easy to denigrate and despise others.

The world needs the Church to come together in the power of the Holy Spirit – wind, fire, speech – tearing down the walls. Helping us all to find a new unity, a new world.

We celebrate the first time God mysteriously showed up in this way. It is on Pentecost. Will God show up again and change the world? That my friends, is a mystery. We will most likely experience it as it happened in the early church – when everyone came together in worship.

Waiting impatiently for the Spirit,
Andrew McDonald, Pastor

One Day, Two Special Events!

Save the date for this festive event! On Sunday, June 22, we'll be celebrating our Scottish heritage as well as the great outdoors. Worship at 10:30 a.m. will be at the Band Shell at Antelope Park. Bring blankets, lawn chairs, sunglasses, sunscreen and plenty of water! Special music will be played by Oasis, as well as Vacation Bible School participants.

After worship, join us for a delicious potluck picnic lunch at the Auld Recreation Center! A free will offering will be collected. Bring a dessert (last name beginning with A-J) or side dish (last name beginning with K-Z) with a serving spoon to serve 10-12 people. Consider bringing an allergen-free item (no nuts, dairy, gluten, etc.) for those with food allergies. If you do, please label it as such so members of the congregation with food allergies can enjoy it safely. There will be no Sunday School classes this week, June 22. Worship at 8:00 a.m. will be in the Chapel per our usual schedule. See you at the park!

Alternative Worship Update

For surely God has plans for us, plans for a future with hope! (Jeremiah 29:11)

The Alternative Worship service planning committee has met almost weekly since January to funnel our energy, excitement and ideas into one cohesive vision for a new service to be added this Fall. The group has conducted multiple surveys and focus groups, both within the congregation and outside of it, and met with church growth consultant Charles Arn, and has plans to present its recommendation to Session in the coming weeks.

Another focus group was held on May 20 to discuss music options, and the feedback we received is helping us shape the look, sound and feel of the service. Your continued prayers and support are most welcome as we continue to follow the guidance of the Holy Spirit and deepen Westminster's commitment to be spiritually alive and broadly inclusive in our worship.

EMERGENCY Human Needs Fund

Many of you may not know, but Westminster has an Emergency Human Needs Fund that is used at the discretion of our Senior Pastor. We have had numerous occasions where MEMBERS of our congregation have needed emergency help to cover some of the basic costs of life such as utility bills, food and medical bills.

This fund has been depleted so we are asking for ANY monetary donations. If this moves you to act, you may send a check to Westminster Presbyterian Church in care of Cheryl Rennick. Mark your check "Emergency Human Needs Fund."

God calls each of us to care for one another. What a great way to share our love with fellow Westminster members. Thanks for your consideration.

Scott Nelson, stewardship committee

Becoming God's Next Church

This year's Synod School, "Becoming God's Next Church," will be July 27 through August 1 at Buena Vista University in Storm Lake, Iowa. Attendees chose from more than 60 courses to participate in and are given the opportunity to grow in faith through fellowship and private reflection.

This year's convocation speaker, Anna Case Winters, is Professor of Theology at McCormick Theological Seminary in Chicago. She will share a lively interchange between theology and science—what we are learning about our evolving universe and the place of the human being within it. How may we understand ourselves today as beings created "in the image of God" and "from the dust of the earth?"

Prayers for Upcoming General Assembly

Please keep Rev. Jen Strickland and Cheryl Rennick in prayer this month, June 14-21, as they travel to Detroit for the 221st General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church (USA). Cheryl will be working with the Social Justice Issues Committee, and Pastor Jen with the Board of Pensions, Presbyterian Investment and Loan Program, Presbyterian Publishing Corporation and Presbyterian Foundation Committee.

What is General Assembly?

The Presbyterian Church is governed by a body like Congress, with elected commissioners that gather every two years to guide the church. This biennial meeting brings together commissioners and advisory delegates from all 172 presbyteries, as well as other delegates and observers from around the world. The assembly opens and closes with worship, and includes celebrations, deliberations and inspirations throughout.

The General Assembly has specific responsibilities. It seeks to protect our church from errors in faith and practice, and is responsible for assuring the expression of our theology remains true to the biblical standards in our historic confessions. The General Assembly presents a witness for truth and justice in our community and in the world. It sets priorities for the church and establishes relationships with other churches or ecumenical bodies.

turning pages

"For I was hungry and you gave me food, I was thirsty and you gave me drink, I was a stranger and you welcomed me. I was naked and you clothed me, I was sick and you visited me, I was in prison and you came to me." ~ Mark 25:35-36

Have you ever felt a call to minister to those imprisoned? Ever hear just the slightest voice? Alongside Pastor Jen, we were fortunate to have the opportunity to be a part of Westminster's first book club with inmates at the Lancaster County Adult Detention Facility. Participation in this book club is a special privilege for inmates selected for the program. Following a required training session, we met with a small group of female inmates once a week for four weeks to discuss portions of the selected reading. We found these women to be prepared, reflective, enthusiastic, talkative, appreciative and supportive of one another, and their gratitude was expressed to us many times.

Books are powerful tools and the shared experience provided a remarkable medium for fellowship. For some women, we were the only visitors they might receive all week. One woman mentioned she was thankful that we still saw them as members of the community, even while imprisoned. Several asked us to pray for their families, and the judges, lawyers and others involved in their cases. When are you coming back for another book club? was a common question asked, and We know there are other inmates that would like the opportunity as well.

Please contact Pastor Jen if you might be interested in joining this ministry. More volunteers would allow us to offer the book club more frequently and expand into the men's unit. Is the Lord calling you?

Recap on Princeton Youth Ministry Forum

Christy Dempsey, confirmation leader

Princeton Theological Seminary Forum on Youth Ministry

I believe... that you should never trust our urban-minded associate pastor when she says taking the train in New Jersey is "easy."

I believe... that two hours of sleep in a Chicago hotel is enough to sustain you through eight hours of lecture when God is involved.

I recently attended the Princeton Theological Seminary's Forum on Youth Ministry with funding provided by the Westminster Presbyterian Church Foundation and a Homestead Presbytery Grant. In this utopia of Christian friendship, I reflected on many of my Christian beliefs (and gained the important new insights above) and considered how to ignite the practice of testimony in youth. This is essential to our youth confirmation program that culminates with the writing of a faith statement. The statement provides a foundation of our confirmands' personal faith and the backbone for their identity.

Let me share with you what I learned. First, I learned from Dr. Amy Peeler and

Rev. Christian Andrews that our faith is not static and neither are the images we identify in faith. As we grow in faith, so does our understanding of God, Jesus Christ and the Holy Spirit. Not only are there a variety of images of these cornerstones of Christian faith in the Bible itself, but also in how we individually experience each one. Do you see God as the father? The creator? The compassionate? The righteous? It is this variety of individual experiences of the vastness of God that comprise the body of Christ. Rev. Andrews suggested that we see it as melody that does not exist by single notes but in the many notes working together.

Second, I learned from Professor Maria Dixon Hall and Rev. Lillian Daniels that growing in faith requires sharing in faith, and sharing in faith requires relationships. Sharing your faith is opening your soul and is very hard to do unless you trust the people with whom you are sharing. Relationships require effort from the first kind “welcome” to “sharing your stuff.” This requires us to move outside of our comfort zone from the placid “how are you” to showing genuine emotion-filled concern for others. Relationships also require time. We don’t learn to walk in a day nor should we expect to create Christian community in a day. It requires work and commitment to build these relationships.

Finally, I learned that Christian testimony is not just telling someone about your faith but living that faith in action. You can witness with your voice, and you can witness with your actions. As Rev. Andrews points out that secular-minded individuals often claim that, “Nothing good can come out of Christianity.” He responds in equating the comment to John 1:44-46. In this verse, Philip went to Nathaniel to tell him about Jesus. Nathaniel responded, “Can anything good come from Nazareth?” In which Philip said, “Come and see.” The Bible is filled with people going to see to the works of Christ. Let them “come and see” the work of Christ in our congregation. They will see the good.

Thank you so much for this opportunity. In the ensuing months, I plan to use this knowledge as a foundation for a Presbytery-wide workshop for youth leaders. From here, we can create a youth program where we, youth and adults together, will learn to share and show our faith.

I believe... that together we can help our young people grow in faith.
